Who Do I Want to Be?

My teacher told us about tomorrow's presentation.

He asked us, "What do you want to be when you grow up?" I said to myself, "Oh, no. Not again! What do I want to be? I have no idea."

At home, I asked my family about their dream jobs.

Dad said, "Well, I wanted to be an astronaut when I was young. I wanted to travel to the moon."

"When I grow up, I'm going to be a robot designer," said my big sister Angela.

My little sister Sophie shouted, "I'm going to be a superhero or a bird!"

Dad asked me, "What about you, Noah? What do you want to be?"

I was stressed out.

Later, Mom came home from work.

"Noah, is everything okay?" she asked.

"No, Mom. Something is wrong with me. I'm not going to be anything in the future."

"What do you mean?" she asked.

"Everyone has a dream job. Even Sophie does. And she's only three!" I cried.

"Oh, Noah. I don't know my dream job."

"What? But you're a grown-up, and you have a job," I said.

"That's right, but ..."

"And you take care of everyone. You have the answers to everything," I went on. "You're always nice, and you're not afraid of anything. Most of all, you're my mom!"

Mom smiled and said, "I hope you are right. I wanted to become that kind of person."

"Mom! You're already that kind of person!"

Just then, I had an idea. "That's it! Thanks, Mom!"

The next day, I gave a presentation.

"What do I want to be when I grow up? I don't know. Who do I want to be? I know that!

I want to be a caring person. I want to help others.

I also want to be a brave person. I want to try new things.

Who do I want to be? I want to be me."
