Everyday Communication 1

1

W Hi. May I help you?

M Hi. I'm looking for a blue T-shirt.

W What size? We have small and large.

M Small, please. How much is it?

W It's 70 dollars.

M Okay. I'll take it.

2

M Excuse me. I'm looking for running shoes.

W Okay. How about these yellow ones?

M Good. Do you have them in 270 millimeters?

W Yes, we do.

M How much are they?

W They are 90 dollars.

M Okay. I'll take them.

Everyday Communication 2

1

M Please leave your bag at the help desk.

W Okay, I will.

2

M I'll ride a bike, Mom.

W Where's your helmet?

M It's in my room.

W You need it. Go and get your helmet.

M Okay, I will.

3

M Can I bring this juice on the bus?

W Sorry. No drinks on the bus.

M Oh, okay.

Wrap Up

1

W Hi, I'm looking for a brown sweater.

M What size? We have small and large.

W Large, please. How much is it?

M It's 50 dollars.

W Okay. I'll take it.

2

M Hello, everyone. Welcome to the Art Museum.

In the museum, please be quiet.

Also, please don't take pictures.

Thank you. Have a great day.

Everything Can Be Art!

Hello, everyone. I'm Artro, your A.I. art guide.

Look around you. Art is everywhere.

Everything can be art. Follow me.

I'll give you some examples.

Can a shadow become an artwork?

Look at this.

The shadow of this cup makes an elephant.

It's your turn. Choose a shadow, and draw interesting things around the shadow. Your shadow can be art.

Box tape can be an artwork, too.

Artists put a piece of tape on glass and add another piece of tape on it. This way, they can make dark or bright colors. Look at the man's face.

Isn't it interesting?

Lastly, your heartbeat can be art, too! At Pulse Park, your heartbeat makes a great art show. Hold the special sensors in the park. Then, your heartbeat changes into lights. Like this, you can see everyone's heartbeats on different lights. Look, the lights are dancing!

Did you enjoy your visit?

There is no end to art. Just try new things.

Next time, I will show you a different art style.

See you next time.
