Joys of Working in Nature

Some people love to work in nature. They work in the sea, mountains, or even in the Arctic. Let's meet them and listen to their stories.

I am Nari. I am a haenyeo in Geoje. I dive in the water and collect seafood. In the morning, I check the tide and the weather. I wear a diving suit and swimming glasses to work in the water. I love diving and spending time in the beautiful sea. I don't collect too much seafood. This is good for the ocean. These days, I see a lot of trash in the water, so I pick up the trash. I believe that we should care about the ocean.

My name is Jihan. I am a vet at the wild animal care center in Jirisan. I take care of sick wild animals in the center and send them back to their homes. Also, I often climb the mountain to look after wild animals like bears. I'm proud of my job. I think that protecting wild animals is important. We should keep an eye on them and their homes to live together.

My name is Eun, and I am an Arctic scientist. I work at the Arctic Dasan Station in Norway. I study the soil, seawater, and ice in the Arctic. I often travel on the special ship, Araon. This ship is stronger than other ships. It can break thick ice across the ocean. Thanks to Araon, I can collect seawater samples. The Arctic Ocean has the answers to the climate crisis. I hope that my work can help the Earth.
