Listen & Speak

B

1

B: Have you heard about the new robot at our school library?

G: No, I haven't. What kind of work does it do?

B: It carries heavy books from one section to another. It looks like a big arm.

G: That sounds cool.

2

G: Do you remember the Chinese restaurant near the park?

B: Of course, but I haven't been there in a while.

G: Well, you should go there again. They have a robot now, and people love it.

B: A robot? What kind of work does it do?

G: It serves food. It is very quick and looks really cute.

C

1

G: Max, look at these robot pets. How do you feel about them?

B: I don't like them.

G: Why? Aren't they so cute?

B: Well, they're not real pets. They can't share feelings with us.

2

G: I saw a TV program about robot helpers for old people.

B: I saw it, too. How do you feel about the robots, Emma?

G: I think they're very helpful. The robots can check people's health every day.

B: Oh, I want one for my grandma.

D

G: Do you know we have a robot in the cafeteria?

B: Our school got a robot? What kind of work does it do there?

G: It makes sandwiches really fast.

B: That's cool. How do you feel about using the robot in the cafeteria?

G: I think it's great because it can make the sandwich line move faster. We don't have to wait too long.

B: It's nice, but I'm worried about the cafeteria workers. They might lose their jobs.

G: Good point. I hope that the school will find new roles for the workers.

B: I hope so, too.

Project: From a Viewer

Hello! My name is Tomabot, and I help farmers pick tomatoes when they turn red. I use a special camera to see the red tomatoes. I pick these tomatoes without damaging them. I am so strong that I can work all day long. Farmers love working with me. I'm happy to make their work easier!

Progress Check

4

B: Have you heard about the new robot at the shopping mall?

G: No, I haven't. What kind of work does it do?

B: It shows people the map of the mall and guides them to different stores.

G: That sounds cool.

5-6

B: Have you watched the TV program about robot helpers for kids?

G: Yes, I have. The robots can help kids with their homework. Isn't it amazing?

B: I've also heard that there are robots that read stories to kids.

G: I think these robots are very helpful. How do you feel about them?

I, Robot Robbie

"Ninety-eight, ninety nine, one hundred! Here I come!" Gloria counted aloud and began to search around the house. The eight-year old girl was playing hide and seek with Robbie. Robbie was a robot who came to her house two years ago. He was her best friend. Robbie was faster and better at hiding, but he always let her win. In return, Gloria told him his favorite story, Cinderella. Robbie's metal eyes blinked with joy.

"Gloria, come back inside!" Mrs. Weston, Gloria's mother, shouted. She did not like Robbie. She felt that a robot should not take care of a child. She said to her husband, "Gloria plays only with Robbie. She does not play with other children."

Mr. Weston did not agree with her. He thought that Robbie was a great help to Gloria and the family.

After a long talk, however, they decided to return Robbie to the factory. When Gloria found that Robbie was gone, she cried, "He is a person just like you and me, and he is my friend! Bring him back!" Gloria's smile was gone. Even a new pet and a trip to New York did not help. Nothing could make her smile.

In the end, her parents took Gloria to the factory. Mrs. Weston pointed to the robot workers and said, "Look at them, Gloria. They are just machines, not people." Gloria was not listening to her mother. She was searching for Robbie.

"There he is!" She shouted with joy. She was so happy that she ran toward him. At that moment, a huge machine was rushing toward her. Robbie saw this, ran quickly toward her, and saved her just in time.

Gloria hugged Robbie tightly. This time, even Mrs. Weston could not separate them. Gloria's parents changed their minds about Robbie and brought him back home. Finally, the two friends lived together happily.
